

Rockarchive

The 10th Anniversary Collection

Crane Kalman Brighton is pleased to announce a brand new selection of work from the Rockarchive music collective to celebrate its 10th Anniversary. As part of the Rockarchive World Tour the exhibition will be showing at Crane Kalman Brighton from 7th January - 15th February.

Having spent 30 years documenting decisive moments in rock music history, acclaimed photographer Jill Furmanovsky founded Rockarchive with the view to present the public with a true portrayal of life in the music business. Images document an intimate and unseen side to the public face of rock as the photographer and musicians became close friends. Jill's ambition was to share her private collection of work with the people who would really appreciate it most; the fans.

In 1998 Rockarchive gained immediate success when Jill chose to produce 30 classic images from her 30 year career as a rock photographer in limited editions of 30 exclusive darkroom images. Edition 30/30/30 was founded and Rockarchive was born.

A decade later and Rockarchive has become a powerful collective with more than 50 music photographers and over 500 images of unseen and unpublished moments in rock and roll history. The exhibition will include work by some of the biggest names in music photography, including Mick Rock, Storm Thorgerson, Lex Van Rossen, Sheila Rock, Kevin Cummins and Jill Furmanovsky herself. Rockarchive produce hand signed limited edition fine art prints from a host of the best music photographers in the world.

Rockarchive is currently celebrating its 10th anniversary and is exhibiting a world tour which kicked off in Dubai this Summer. To mark the occasion Rockarchive is showing in London, Brighton in the early new year followed by shows in Sydney, Tokyo, Geneva, Prague and ending in style in New York in Autumn '09.

This essential collection of rock images features an assortment of some the world's most famous rock and roll personalities and musicians such as - The Beatles, Lou Reed, The Sex Pistols, Bob Marley and The Rolling Stones – and will showcase world exclusive prints of David Bowie, Blondie and Adam Ant.

The collection of stylistic rock images show the vivacious spirit, glamour, fame and excesses that surrounded many of the legendary names in the music business during the classic eras of rock and roll.

Rockarchive – The 10th Anniversary Collection runs at Crane Kalman Brighton, 38 Kensington Gardens, Brighton BN1 4AL from 7th January - 15th February.
